

Energy Management System (ISO 50001:2011) Foundation Course

PDUs to be awarded by Professional Engineers Board, Singapore

Date : 28 & 29 November 2011

Time : 9.00 am to 5.00 pm

Venue : Hotel Re!
175A Chin Swee Road
Singapore 169879

Energy efficiency and energy resource management is very relevant in today's context of global warming and climate change. Energy production is responsible for sixty percent of the world's Green House Gas emissions. The ISO 50001:2011 Energy Management System standard is in line with this requirement to help firms and organizations address and reference energy management issues on a global standard. This 2-day workshop provides participants with practical tools and methods for implementing an energy management system for the improvement of energy efficiency in their organization.

Objectives

At the end of the course, the participants will be able to:

- Explain and discuss the purpose and importance of an ISO 50001 Energy Management System
- Apply the principles and initiate the implementation of an ISO 50001 Energy Management System
